

INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETING THE FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE STATEMENT

You must compile the court-required Financial Disclosure Statement (FDS) In collaborative and mediation cases, please discuss this with us in advance as it will likely be a joint FDS process. We will discuss the timing (after the case is filed) for gathering financial information to use a consistent valuation date. Please note that the initial FDS is a draft and does not need to be signed. Here are some helpful instructions:

Income: Please provide your last four paycheck stubs from each source of employment and let us know how often you are paid (two times per month/every other week, etc.). We will calculate the amount of your gross income and deductions. Write on the statement if you are eligible for bonuses or commissions and how the bonuses are calculated and when paid; include the amounts for the prior year and year-to-date.

Please be sure to include a copy of your last federal and state income tax returns, together with all W-2s, 1099s, and schedules. Please provide a copy of the most recent copy of each of your Social Security Earnings and Benefit Statement (request at www.ssa.gov). If you need assistance, let us know.

Statement of Expenses: Although the statement provides for "husband" and "wife", we need your projected expenses with you and your children, if any, living separately from your spouse. For example, your housing expenses for living separately will be different based upon rent, purchase or refinance. Do not apportion housing or food for the children, but do list any significant expenses such as uninsured medical/dental, clothing, and activities in the children column.

Statement of Debts: Please include a copy of your most recent debt statements. Provide a copy of all credit card statements (even if paid in full monthly).

Household items: Do not guess resale values. These items are usually divided by agreement. Please do note if there are any items of significant value, and we will discuss those items separately (e.g. art, collectibles).

Automobiles: Please go to www.kbb.com and calculate the value of each vehicle using private party value and include the proper year, make, model, condition and mileage. Print out the valuation and include it with your financial documents.

Investments (securities, bank accounts, retirement assets, and life insurance): Please provide a copy of the end-of-prior year and most recent statement for each joint or individual account or any account you have closed in the past year.

Real Estate: Please complete the information, but no need to include the original cost or the cost of additions. Please provide a copy of the mortgage, deed, or note that sets forth the full legal description of the real estate and a tax bill.

Please call us promptly with any questions or concerns you may have. Please return a draft of the FDS along with all the documentation to us. It is ideal to have the information to us within 30 days of the commencement of the action or earlier if there is a temporary hearing, but check with us about what valuation date to use. In collaborative and mediation cases, the process and timetable for gathering information will be discussed at a joint meeting. It is important that you gather all documents above and take your time to make sure that the statement is complete and accurate. Not only is this form the basis for negotiating and finalizing the financial issues of your divorce, but it is a document which you will each eventually finalize and sign under oath swearing that it is true and correct before it is filed with the court.
